

JAMIL SAMARANI

SOFTWARE ENGINEER

ABOUT ME

I am a Sydney based Software Engineer with a background in Law and Finance, which is the antithesis of my early years trying to cheat at online games, while taking breaks to SQL attack my friend's website. It all changed when he asked me to make it so his site wasn't so vulnerable. I suddenly found myself on the other side, structuring the logic and re-writing the code.

It would seem bizarre that I found myself studying law and working in finance, but people are complex, and I am a people person. I love to negotiate and solve problems for people, but I always found myself tinkering with code when I got home. I guess I didn't change that much.

During my tenure at oOh! and Safeguard, I experienced what a programming career entailed in a professional setting. The communication with people was more important than ever, and writing clean code that was easy to understand became my focus. I am finally doing what I love to do, and look forward to the challenges that await.
